MULTIPLE CHOICE

1. Vy Higginsen and Marion West discovered that they had a common ancestor through
   a. extensive research in libraries and archives.
   b. shared historical links to colonial settlers.
   c. DNA testing.
   d. stories from their grandparents.
   ANS: C DIF: Moderate REF: 1.0 A Sociology of the Family MSC: Remembering

2. Americans looking back through the generations for a feeling of connection to a larger family tree are interested in
   a. genealogy.
   b. exchange theory.
   c. forming a breadwinner-homemaker family.
   d. forming a legal family.
   ANS: A DIF: Easy REF: 1.0 A Sociology of the Family MSC: Understanding

3. Why can family connections be described as symbolic?
   a. Family connections are meaningful because people believe they are.
   b. Families share DNA, which is represented with symbols.
   c. Families must be established through symbolic events like weddings.
   d. Family connections are not meaningful unless legally recognized.
   ANS: A DIF: Moderate REF: 1.0 A Sociology of the Family MSC: Understanding

4. Families are groups of related people, bound by __________.
   a. their interest in genealogy
   b. biological, legal, and emotional connections
   c. birth, marriage, or adoption
   d. experiencing an event together at the same time
   ANS: B DIF: Moderate REF: 1.1 Defining Families MSC: Understanding

5. Why is college financial aid affected by how rich or poor a student’s parents are?
   a. Failing to pay for a child's college is considered abandonment.
   b. Teachers are seen as extensions of parental authority.
   c. Parents alone have the authority to decide whether their children attend college.
   d. People are expected to sacrifice time, energy, and money for their families.
   ANS: D DIF: Moderate REF: 1.1 Defining Families MSC: Understanding
6. Which of the following is an example of a family tie formed by legal recognition?
   a. a family friend whom children refer to as “auntie”
   b. two adults living together
   c. people who are married
   d. coworkers who see one another daily

   ANS: C   DIF: Easy   REF: 1.1 Defining Families
   MSC: Understanding

7. Appropriate parental discipline is decided by
   a. permit approval.
   b. a formal legal proceeding.
   c. common cultural understandings.
   d. the child.

   ANS: C   DIF: Easy   REF: 1.1 Defining Families
   MSC: Understanding

8. When giving a reason for missing a meeting, a staff member lets her boss know that she is unavailable because her grandmother is in the hospital. The boss accepts this as an excusable absence because
   a. family commitments are privileged.
   b. the staff member shows she cares about her grandmother.
   c. the boss also has a grandmother.
   d. the staff member is a single mother.

   ANS: A   DIF: Moderate   REF: 1.1 Defining Families
   MSC: Applying

9. Which of the following is an example of a personal family?
   a. a family friend who you call “auntie” but who does not consider herself part of your family
   b. a stepchild who considers him- or herself part of the family and whose stepparent considers the stepchild part of the family
   c. your best friend, who also considers you his or her best friend
   d. your family pet

   ANS: B   DIF: Moderate   REF: 1.1 Defining Families | The Personal Family
   MSC: Applying

10. Julia’s friends visit her while she is babysitting her young nephew. Julia’s nephew doesn’t seem interested in any of the new people he is introduced to and prefers to be held by his aunt. What can be inferred from his behavior?
   a. He considers Julia’s friends part of his personal family.
   b. He understands the family as an institutional arena.
   c. He understands the difference between family members and others.
   d. He is not receiving adequate emotional or physical care at home.

    ANS: C   DIF: Moderate   REF: 1.1 Defining Families | The Personal Family
    MSC: Applying
11. Philip Cohen writes that it is challenging to define family because
   a. who counts as family is defined by the law.
   b. only people who are biologically related are family.
   c. no one has been able to define family before.
   d. different people and cultures use different definitions.

   ANS: D  DIF: Easy  REF: 1.1 Defining Families

   MSC: Remembering

12. According to the reading, know the difference between family and nonfamily is important for children
   a. so they know who is allowed to take them home from school.
   b. for forming attachment and constructing personal identities.
   c. for legal cases.
   d. so that they can understand the family as an institutional arena.

   ANS: B  DIF: Easy  REF: 1.1 Defining Families | The Personal Family

   MSC: Understanding

13. Which of the following is an example of a legal family member?
   a. a family friend whom you call “auntie”
   b. your best friend
   c. your little sister
   d. your family pet

   ANS: C  DIF: Easy  REF: 1.1 Defining | The Legal Family

   MSC: Applying

14. How did the United States v. Windsor ruling change the legal definition of marriage?
   a. It supported the earlier Defense of Marriage Act.
   b. It specified that couples legally married in certain states did have federal recognition of their marriage.
   c. It resulted in the federal government recognizing all legal marriages performed in states.
   d. It required all states to perform same-sex marriage.

   ANS: C  DIF: Moderate  REF: 1.1 Defining Families | The Legal Family

   MSC: Understanding

15. In which of the following cases would the census include all members in the count of a family?
   a. two unmarried people with a roommate
   b. two married people with two college-age children who live on campus
   c. two married people and their legally adopted child living in the same household
   d. two married people with two children and a family friend whom they consider an aunt, all living in the same household

   ANS: C  DIF: Moderate

   REF: 1.1 Defining Families | How the U.S. Census Counts Families

   MSC: Applying
16. There has been a nationwide count of people in the United States population every 10 years since 1790. This period count is known as a
a. family arena.
b. household count.
c. legal family.
d. census.

ANS: D DIF: Moderate
REF: 1.1 Defining Families | How the U.S. Census Counts Families
MSC: Applying

17. How does the census define a household?
a. a group of individuals related by birth, marriage, or adoption
b. a group of people that lives and eats separately from other groups
c. the people to whom we feel related and who we expect to define us as members of their family as well
d. groups of related people bound by connections that are biological, legal, or emotional

ANS: B DIF: Moderate
REF: 1.1 Defining Families | How the U.S. Census Counts Families
MSC: Applying

18. Why did the idea of a “household head” come under attack during the 1960s?
a. Feminists didn’t like the implied expectation of marriage.
b. The Census Bureau did not have a clear definition of family.
c. The Census Bureau only had six categories for family relationships.
d. Feminists didn’t like the implied presumption of male authority.

ANS: D DIF: Moderate
REF: 1.1 Defining Families | How the U.S. Census Counts Families
MSC: Remembering

19. By 1980, the census form dropped the category “household head” and replaced it with
__________.
a. “householder”
b. “opposite-sex husband/wife/spouse”
c. “father/husband”
d. “father or mother”

ANS: A DIF: Easy
REF: 1.1 Defining Families | How the U.S. Census Counts Families
MSC: Remembering

20. Which of the following is the sociological definition of family?
a. “a group of related people bound by connections that are biological, legal, or emotional”
b. “the people to whom we feel related and who we expect to define us as members of their family as well”
c. “a group of people that lives and eats separately from other groups”
d. “the place where family matters take place”

ANS: D DIF: Easy
REF: 1.1 Defining Families | The Family as an Institutional Arena
MSC: Understanding
21. An institutional arena is governed by
   a. the law.
   b. accepted rules of interaction.
   c. government definitions of family.
   d. the head of household.

   ANS: B   DIF: Easy
   REF: 1.1 Defining Families | The Family as an Institutional Arena
   MSC: Remembering

22. When a social position is accompanied by accepted patterns of behavior, it becomes _________.
   a. a role
   b. a family arena
   c. an institutional arena
   d. a census

   ANS: A   DIF: Difficult
   REF: 1.1 Defining Families | The Family as an Institutional Arena
   MSC: Remembering

23. According to the author, the state affects families directly through regulations, like granting marriage licenses. This is an example of the
   a. personal family.
   b. legal family.
   c. family as an institution.
   d. market.

   ANS: C   DIF: Easy
   REF: 1.1 Defining Families | The Family as an Institutional Arena
   MSC: Understanding

24. In which institutional arena does wealth accumulation take place?
   a. the state
   b. the market
   c. the family
   d. symbolic interaction

   ANS: B   DIF: Easy
   REF: 1.1 Defining Families | The Family as an Institutional Arena
   MSC: Understanding

25. Jenelle and Adham are about to have a child, but they cannot afford to pay for childcare. They agree that the person who earns less should stop working and take care of their child full time. What institutional arena is this decision related to?
   a. the state
   b. the market
   c. the personal family
   d. the legal family

   ANS: B   DIF: Moderate
   REF: 1.1 Defining Families | The Family as an Institutional Arena
   MSC: Applying
26. In which institutional arena does facilitation of divorce take place?
   a. the state
   b. the market
   c. the family
   d. symbolic interaction
   ANS: A  DIF: Easy
   REF: 1.1 Defining Families | The Family as an Institutional Arena
   MSC: Understanding

27. A couple is in the process of adopting a child. They are very excited to become parents and often talk about introducing their child to their favorite foods, what kinds of outfits they will buy for their child, and what they hope to teach their child. This couple is discussing the _________ arena.
   a. state
   b. market
   c. family
   d. genealogy
   ANS: C  DIF: Easy
   REF: 1.1 Defining Families | The Family as an Institutional Arena
   MSC: Applying

28. Which of the following examples provides evidence that the role of the state is changing?
   a. the growth of public services in health care and education
   b. the growing number of divorces
   c. the growing number of legal families
   d. the growth of inequality in family definitions
   ANS: A  DIF: Easy
   REF: 1.1 Defining Families | The Family as an Institutional Arena
   MSC: Understanding

29. The Supreme Court decision Obergefell v. Hodges
   a. granted same-sex couples the right to adoption in every state.
   b. guaranteed same-sex couples the right to marriage in every state.
   c. repealed the Defense of Marriage Act.
   d. upheld the Defense of Marriage Act.
   ANS: B  DIF: Easy
   REF: 1.1 Defining Families: The Legal Family
   MSC: Remembering

30. A group of citizens vote for politicians to represent them. Those politicians create a government agency that works to reduce domestic violence and assist victims of domestic violence. What does this describe?
   a. the state arena
   b. the market arena
   c. the family arena
   d. conflict theory
   ANS: A  DIF: Easy
   REF: 1.1 Defining Families | The Family as an Institutional Arena
   MSC: Applying
31. Which theoretical perspective does the following statement represent? “Society is the ‘collective expression of shared norms and values.’”
   a. consensus
   b. conflict
   c. exchange
   d. symbolic interaction

ANS: A  DIF: Easy
REF: 1.2 The Family in Sociological Theory | Broad Perspectives
MSC: Understanding

32. Some ________ theorists argue that the unpaid work historically done by women (cooking, cleaning, and raising children) helps men while the financial support that employed husbands provide helps women.
   a. consensus
   b. feminist
   c. conflict
   d. symbolic interactionist

ANS: A  DIF: Easy  REF: 1.2 Family in Sociological Theory
MSC: Applying

33. Which of the following arguments would a conflict theorist make about the work wives have historically done at home without pay?
   a. Women are naturally better at nurturing and caring.
   b. Division of labor creates dependence and harmony.
   c. It has allowed employers to pay men less.
   d. It is an exchange that rewards all members.

ANS: C  DIF: Moderate  REF: 1.2 The Family in Sociological Theory: Broad Perspectives
MSC: Understanding

34. Economist Gary Becker proposed that husbands and wives make joint decisions to maximize the benefits for the entire family, such as deciding who works outside the home. These ideas are very closely related to which theoretical perspective?
   a. consensus
   b. exchange
   c. symbolic interactionist
   d. structural functionalist

ANS: B  DIF: Easy  REF: 1.2 Family in Sociological Theory
MSC: Understanding

35. Modernity theorists break the modern era of family into two periods, each with different characteristics. Since the 1970s, they argue we are currently in the second modernity. This era is characterized by which of the following?
   a. significant diversity of family forms
   b. gradual changes in family forms
   c. increasing numbers of divorce
   d. a return to traditional family forms

ANS: A  DIF: Easy  REF: 1.2 Family in Sociological Theory
MSC: Understanding
36. A researcher is studying family interactions. She notices a common practice and asks, “What is the function of this practice? What good is it doing that permits it to survive?” The researcher is engaging with what perspective?
   a. consensus
   b. conflict
   c. exchange
   d. symbolic interaction

   ANS: A  DIF: Easy
   REF: 1.2 The Family in Sociological Theory | Broad Perspectives
   MSC: Understanding

37. What constitutes the breadwinner-homemaker family as understood as traditional in the 1950s?
   a. either parent employed, while the other takes care of their children
   b. an employed father, a mother without employment, and their children
   c. an employed mother, a father without employment, and their children
   d. two employed parents and their children

   ANS: B  DIF: Easy
   REF: 1.2 The Family in Sociological Theory | Broad Perspectives
   MSC: Understanding

38. What did Talcott Parsons believe was necessary to preserve the family as an institution?
   a. a legal family
   b. the breadwinner-homemaker family
   c. a family wage
   d. a census

   ANS: B  DIF: Easy
   REF: 1.2 The Family in Sociological Theory | Broad Perspectives
   MSC: Understanding

39. Which of the following is a criticism of Talcott Parsons’s view of family structures?
   a. He fails to understand that the experiences and roles of men and women are different.
   b. His emphasis on socialization ignores the natural outcomes of biology.
   c. His emphasis on power struggles ignores the positive aspects of families.
   d. His views of gender roles rationalize male-domination.

   ANS: D  DIF: Moderate
   REF: 1.2 The Family in Sociological Theory | Broad Perspectives
   MSC: Understanding

40. What theoretical perspective does the following statement represent? “The roles of men and women are part of an ‘unstable system ripe for change.’”
   a. consensus
   b. conflict
   c. structural functionalism
   d. symbolic interaction

   ANS: B  DIF: Easy
   REF: 1.2 The Family in Sociological Theory
   MSC: Understanding
41. Ibrahim believes that inequality and the struggles it causes are a main factor in driving history forward. What perspective would Ibrahim most likely identify with?
   a. consensus
   b. conflict
   c. structural functionalism
   d. symbolic interaction

   ANS: B   DIF: Easy   REF: 1.2 The Family in Sociological Theory
   MSC: Applying

42. What theoretical perspective does the following statement represent? “Family structure is socially constructed.”
   a. consensus
   b. feminism
   c. structural functionalism
   d. symbolic interaction

   ANS: B   DIF: Easy   REF: 1.2 The Family in Sociological Theory
   MSC: Understanding

43. A husband, a wife, and their daughter are watching TV together. The husband decides what the family will watch, and when he says that he would like a glass of water, the wife gets up and brings it to him. Watching interactions like these influences how the daughter interacts with men. How might this be interpreted by feminist theory?
   a. The breadwinner-homemaker family model creates conflict.
   b. The legal family is where jobs are assigned to men and women by law.
   c. The family arena is where unequal gender roles are created through socialization.
   d. Families function best when women have an expressive role.

   ANS: C   DIF: Moderate   REF: 1.2 The Family in Sociological Theory
   MSC: Applying

44. The process by which individuals internalize elements of the social structure in their own personalities is called
   a. exchange theory.
   b. socialization.
   c. the life course perspective.
   d. genealogy.

   ANS: B   DIF: Easy   REF: 1.2 The Family in Sociological Theory
   MSC: Remembering

45. A young girl likes stories about princesses who are kind and beautiful. Her parents praise her when she does something nice, and they compliment her when she plays dress up. As she grows older, the girl continues to emulate these qualities. Even as an adult, she always tries to be nice and look her best. A feminist theorist might say this is an example of what?
   a. exchange theory
   b. socialization
   c. life course perspective
   d. genealogy

   ANS: B   DIF: Moderate   REF: 1.2 The Family in Sociological Theory
   MSC: Applying
46. What theoretical perspective does the following statement represent? “Individuals and groups with different resources, strengths, and weaknesses enter into mutual relationships to maximize their own gains.”
   a. structural functionalism
   b. conflict
   c. exchange
   d. symbolic interaction

ANS: C  DIF: Easy  REF: 1.2 The Family in Sociological Theory
MSC: Understanding

47. What theoretical perspective revolves around people’s ability to enact social roles based on the expectations of others?
   a. conflict
   b. feminism
   c. modernity
   d. symbolic interaction

ANS: D  DIF: Easy  REF: 1.2 The Family in Sociological Theory
MSC: Understanding

48. Through what expression do symbolic interactionists determine meaning?
   a. actions
   b. words
   c. ideas
   d. emotions

ANS: A  DIF: Easy  REF: 1.2 The Family in Sociological Theory
MSC: Understanding

49. What theoretical perspective does the following statement represent? “It is critical to understand the process by which individuality changed personal and institutional relations.”
   a. demographic perspective
   b. life course perspective
   c. modernity
   d. symbolic interaction

ANS: C  DIF: Easy  REF: 1.2 The Family in Sociological Theory
MSC: Understanding

50. What theoretical perspective does the following statement represent? “Family behavior and household structures contribute to larger population processes in many important ways.”
   a. demographic perspective
   b. life course perspective
   c. modernity
   d. symbolic interaction

ANS: A  DIF: Easy  REF: 1.2 The Family in Sociological Theory
MSC: Understanding
51. What theoretical perspective does the following statement represent? “Family structure includes the progression from childhood to adulthood, which must be understood in a social and historical context.”
   a. demographic perspective
   b. life course perspective
   c. modernity
   d. symbolic interaction

   ANS: B  DIF: Easy  REF: 1.2 The Family in Sociological Theory
   MSC: Understanding

52. What theoretical perspective does the following statement represent? “Studies of birth, death, and migration should occur at the population level to help us better understand families.”
   a. demographic perspective
   b. life course perspective
   c. modernity
   d. symbolic interaction

   ANS: A  DIF: Easy  REF: 1.2 The Family in Sociological Theory
   MSC: Understanding

53. Which of the following is an example of a cohort?
   a. a family with two children
   b. baby boomers who all experienced the JFK assassination
   c. siblings
   d. a large group of pen pals

   ANS: B  DIF: Easy  REF: 1.2 The Family in Sociological Theory
   MSC: Understanding

54. Which of the following is an example of correlation?
   a. Kids who sleep with a night-light more often turn out to be nearsighted in adulthood.
   b. Children are often nearsighted.
   c. A family includes siblings who are both nearsighted.
   d. A family includes siblings who are both farsighted.

   ANS: A  DIF: Easy  REF: 1.2 The Family in Sociological Theory
   MSC: Understanding

55. What is one of the ways that sociologists attempt to reduce bias in their studies?
   a. collecting their own data
   b. writing their own survey questions
   c. using publicly funded nationally representative studies
   d. using data from Internet news sites

   ANS: C  DIF: Easy  REF: 1.2 The Family in Sociological Theory
   MSC: Understanding
56. What is the difference between random selection and nonrandom selection?
   a. Random selection ensures that a large number of people are selected, but nonrandom selection does not.
   b. Nonrandom selection ensures that each person in the sample has the same likelihood of being chosen, while random selection does not.
   c. Random selection is more regionally diverse than nonrandom selection.
   d. Random selection ensures that each person in the population has the same likelihood of being chosen, while nonrandom selection does not.

ANS: D   DIF: Easy   REF: 1.3 Studying Families | Sample Surveys

MSC: Understanding

57. A longitudinal survey is one that is sent
   a. each year to a different group of high school students.
   b. to twelfth graders in the same high school each year.
   c. only once to a group of eighth, tenth, and twelfth graders.
   d. to the same people every five years.

ANS: D   DIF: Easy   REF: 1.3 Studying Families | Sample Surveys

MSC: Understanding

58. What is the benefit of time-use studies?
   a. They allow researchers to collect detailed information on how families spend their time.
   b. They allow researchers to collect survey data.
   c. They are a substitution for in-depth interviews that give researchers the same data.
   d. They replace large, national studies.

ANS: A   DIF: Easy   REF: 1.3 Studying Families | In-Depth Interviews and Observation

MSC: Understanding

59. Margaret’s family of four was asked to be a part of a research project on the division of labor and daily chores. They were each asked to keep a detailed account of their activities for one week. This would be an example of a
   a. longitudinal survey.
   b. cohort study.
   c. time use study.
   d. in-depth interview.

ANS: C   DIF: Moderate   REF: 1.3 Studying Families | In-Depth Interviews and Observation

MSC: Applying

ESSAY

1. Describe how you would use genealogical approaches to explore three elements of your background.

ANS:
Possible answers include using DNA testing to determine biological family ties, mapping family trees to look for family ties using historical records, and trying to find a tie to a long-lost family member for legal reasons, such as inheritance.

DIF: Moderate   REF: 1.0 A Sociology of the Family   MSC: Understanding
2. Using the concepts of biological and symbolic family ties, explain how you know whom to call your “family.”

ANS: Biological family members include anyone you know about who is blood related. However, we often refer to others as “family,” including folks who are completely unrelated in a biological sense but to whom we feel a strong connection and consider part of our family.

DIF: Moderate  REF: 1.0 A Sociology of the Family  MSC: Applying

3. Based on what you have learned about the authority of the family, explain why teachers are allowed to exert corporal punishment on students, and discuss an argument families might make against the use of corporal punishment in schools.

ANS: Teachers can use corporal punishment because they are seen as an extension of parental authority. Arguments against this practice might include that families feel their own disciplinary approaches are privileged, and that they have not given individual teachers the symbolic role of family extension.

DIF: Moderate  REF: 1.1 Defining Families  MSC: Evaluating

4. Compare and contrast the personal family, the legal family, and the family as an institutional arena. Give examples of each.

ANS: The personal family allows for a broader definition of the family that focuses on whom we feel related to, while the legal family is that which is recognized by the state or governing bodies. The family as an institution refers to the broader space in which relations take place. The institution contains elements of the legal family.

DIF: Moderate  REF: 1.1 Defining Families  MSC: Analyzing

5. The definition of family has changed over time as a result of legal, cultural, and institutional shifts. Discuss two ways that the definition of family has changed over time and include which factors created this change.

ANS: Institutions have created changes, such as the census changing the definition of family, and families themselves have changed such that stepfamily members are recognized (both a legal and cultural shift).

DIF: Moderate  REF: 1.2 Defining Families  MSC: Evaluating
6. When it comes to understanding families, how are structural functionalists and conflict theoretical perspectives different? Based on what you read in the chapter, contrast how the two theories might explain the rise of the breadwinner-homemaker family.

ANS:
The structural functionalist approach is part of the consensus perspective, and therefore focuses on stability rather than change. Structural functionalists specifically focus on the function of common behavioral patterns. Conflict theorists, however, focus on the role of conflict and opposition. Structural functionalists focus on the harmony and consensus that occurs in society, and conflict theorists focus on opposition. Structural functionalists see the breadwinner-homemaker family as creating harmony. Men and women each perform a separate, but necessary function; this creates a balance and mutual dependence. Conflict theorists would argue that breadwinner-homemaker model is linked to exploitation and capitalism. It grew because it allowed employers to pay husbands less because wives were doing all the work that is required at home for no pay.

DIF: Moderate  REF: 1.2 The Family in Sociological Theory
MSC: Evaluating

7. Describe three significant contributions of feminist theory to sociologists’ understanding of contemporary families.

ANS:
Some examples include the focus on the importance of socialization, understanding inequalities in families, the importance of viewing families as socially constructed, and that gender perspectives are not uniform across people.

DIF: Easy  REF: 1.2 The Family in Sociological Theory
MSC: Understanding

8. How have theoretical approaches to understanding the family shaped the sociological understanding of family over time?

ANS:
Changes in the definition of family and understandings about family structure have coincided with the emergence and evolution of sociological theory about families. These theoretical approaches have provided sociologists with tools and approaches for making sense of families, including changes in family structure, cultural influences in the definitions of families, and the increasing role of the state and market in determining family relations.

DIF: Difficult  REF: 1.2 The Family in Sociological Theory
MSC: Evaluating

9. What are some of the strategies sociologists use to avoid bias in their research?

ANS:
Sociologists avoid bias by relying on large, publicly funded, nationally representative studies. They also rely heavily on peer review.

DIF: Easy  REF: 1.2 The Family in Sociological Theory
MSC: Understanding
10. What are the advantages of surveys, in-depth interviews, and time-use studies? Why would sociologists choose one method over another to study families?

ANS:
Surveys, in-depth interviews, and time-use studies each have advantages and challenges. One advantage of surveys is that you can collect data on a larger number of people. However, here you can gain breadth, but not necessarily depth. In-depth interviews are time intensive and likely can only be done on a small scale and provide the opposite trade-off. That is, you can achieve depth from a much smaller number of people. Time-use studies offer an intermediate solution, allowing for more depth than a survey and, with less researcher time commitment, they can be given to slightly larger groups of people. Depending on the goals of the study and the researchers’ desires and available time, they may choose one or another of these options or may join them together in a complimentary approach.

DIF: Difficult  REF: 1.2 The Family in Sociological Theory
MSC: Applying